Jump to the main contentThe bump in the night. Instagram @jennifer.inggle; sammydunoffOff, being pregnant on Halloween may sound like a costume obstacle. The ghost costume automatically becomes a pregnant ghost, and the witch also expects a witch. But really, a baby bump can be a wonderful costume opportunity if you build your costume around it. Do not try to hide your bump - flaunt it, and make it a central part of your disguise. With a little creativity, a bump can transform into a basketball, a pot of honey, and even a devastating ball for Miley Cyrus to ride on. Here, 18 costume ideas for moms-to-be. Extra points for a cheeky Baby Depot sign. And make it a little thought-provoking with dad being like a quarter. You already have your honey belly! Although this may hit a little too close to home when the baby comes along. Your baby will appreciate this costume one day. But just do not try to pass or dribble. Just hope your work is over easily (sorry, may). Turn your bump into a beautiful bird egg – and sit on it all night. Just let that bullet hang out – and pull on a beard and happy path. She came in like a wreeeeeking ball!!!. Locked up for nine long months! All it takes is a roll of toilet paper and Sharpies.With a little Joey in the bag. You know you have cat ears sitting around the house. Forgive me, Father, for I have sinned. Your bump makes the perfect pit! A bedazzled baby bump is a great baby bump. Not for the faint of heart ... TopicsnewsHalloweenCostumesPregnancy The approach to Halloween fills many fancy-dress enthusiasts with anticipation, joy and excitement. And then there are those among us who, frankly, dread it. Are you actually going to ride the subway or show up at the office on mandatory costume-competition day in some kind of cosplay regalia? Do you really need to research all this year's pop culture moments to come up with something smart? If your answer is yes, it's cool - but if you find (and put on) a getup feels like pulling teeth, then you're in the right place. We've put together a list of an ingredient costumes - ensembles that make you look like the Halloween enthusiast as you're decidedly not in a single step. (Full disclosure: some are two-ingredient.) Click through to check out the suggested pieces you can throw at the last minute for a costume that doesn't get you turned away from the party. You can even win an award this year. (But probably not.) At Refinery29, we're here to help you navigate this overwhelming world of things. All our market choices are chosen independently and curated by the editorial staff. (Sparklers optional!) Get the tutorial on Oh Yay Studio. 2 of 75 Superquilts Costume Love to knit, quilt, and crochet? Save the day – er, crafter-noon, if you will – with this epic costume. It's right up your alley. Make costume: cut a duvet in a trapezoid shape; sew a corresponding color bias tape around the edges to finish. At the top of the trapezoid, sew a corresponding ribbon color band. Use a scrap of the duvet to cut out an oversized letter Q and blanket sew it to the front of a T-shirt. Carpet stitching around the edges of a felt superhero mask and round out the look with a tailoring bracelet adorned with sewing charm. Glue a metal thimble to a silver ring blank to create a superpower ring. SHOP FILT SUPERHERO MASKS 3 of 75 Picnic Blanket Costume Fashion a dress from red-and-white gingham fabric (or just buy one), and decorate it with paper plates, children's faux food, and utensils. (Add plastic ants, if desired!) A fascinator made of a paper-covered cardboard plate and more picnic fixin's further this feast for the eyes. Get the tutorial on Oh Yay Studio. 4 out of 75 Bat Costume This costume is so easy to pull off. All need is a black hoodie and a broken umbrella. Make the costume: Cut the umbrella in half and use black safety pins or warm glue to attach it to your arms on a black hoodie. Attach the hinges to the metal umbrella pieces with black electric tape so that they can be folded correctly. Create ears with foam core and feathers for added texture. 5 out of 75 Head in the Clouds This adorable look by Amber Kemp-Gerstel starts with a regular T-shirt and headband! Let your creativity take it from there. Get the tutorial at Damask Love.Shop White Headband 6 of 75 Firefly Jar Costume Set neighborhood glow with this bright idea.
